Guest Article

I have just finished a mystery novel in which I found this nugget of wisdom. The story is set in India on a tea plantation owned by an English family in the northeast part of India.

The English stood a little apart as the natives performed their ceremony, a dignified and celebratory affair...(including) ritual bowing that entailed folding the hands together and raising them to the level of one's heart. "The gesture is called namaste in Hindu. It means that the Divine within me salutes the Divine within you," Harry murmured to me. "A lovely sentiment," I returned. "Indeed. The world would be a rather better place if we looked only for God in one another" (he said).

In person Adult Forum will be held in the Fellowship Hall and will also be available on Zoom. If you choose Zoom just stay connected after the Sunday morning service. We anticipate a 10-15 minute break between the end of the postlude and the beginning of Adult Forum.

Upcoming Forums:

April 17—Easter No Adult Forum

April 24—Webster Rock Hill Ministries, one of our selected benevolences, will update us on their mission and activities.

May 1—Diane Drollinger, Katie Ciorba, and Pastor Meagan will lead a discussion on how we, as a congregation and as individuals, can best help survivors of sexual abuse, even when we don't know who they are.

May 8—Mark and Janet Roock will be facilitating a discussion of The Sum of Us: What Racism Costs Everyone and How We Can Prosper Together. Members of Christ Lutheran, along with members of neighboring congregations, have read this book, held Zoom discussions and gained insights into how racism costs everyone. Please join us for this worthwhile presentation in person or on Zoom after church on May 8. If you haven't read the book and would like to, it is available at Novel Neighbor in Webster Groves or members may be willing to share their copies.

Summary of April 10 Forum

The triumphal entry to Jerusalem is recounted in all four gospels. Each writer handles the story differently and each deserves a careful reading.

If we use our imagination we can picture Jesus and his followers—not just the twelve, but men and women, people he healed or helped—people he met on the road to Jerusalem. The crowd, or perhaps just the disciples, is calling out Hosanna—“Save Now” or “Save now please.” Some are calling out Son of David. That is a political callout. Did Pilate know? He was in Jerusalem to represent Roman strength, power, and domination. Did Caiaphas the high priest know? It's his job to keep the peace.

What is the crowd thinking a political savior has come? Is the crowd thinking that revolution is about to occur? Is the crowd thinking that God will enter the city, get rid of the Romans, and create peace on earth? (See the Luke passage)

Pilate and Caiaphas would have been very concerned about what the crowd is thinking.

Our job is to put ourselves in the position of that crowd. We're calling out Hosanna, Save now; we're calling out for the son of David. Are we thinking of political revolution or are we thinking of peace?

The crowd calls out Hosanna—save now, or save now please. We need to ask, “Save from what?” In Jesus' time, save us from Roman domination, Roman taxation, from Roman oppression, from the Romans trampling our holy city and our holy temple.

Or—are we thinking save us now from disease, from poverty, from despair, from sin? From what are we calling out Save us please? How would this Jesus, this son of David—what salvation does he bring?

When Jesus enters the city the crowd is there and the Romans are there. Jesus is being hailed as a savior a son of David. Zechariah talked about the king entering the city humble and mounted on a donkey. It's a fever pitch of excitement and expectation. But within a week Jesus will die on a cross. What do we expect when the savior enters the city? What do we expect when the victory parade is over? Why do our opinions change so quickly?
